A PAINFUL PLUGGING.

An Assault and Battery Case—Valentine Richards vs.
Joseph Buxton.

A case of assault and battery preferred by Valentine Richards, a clerk in the employ of Mr. T. W. Robinson, against Mr. Joseph Buxton, a boiler-maker in the C.P.R. Round House, came up before Mr. Seymour Green, J. P. on Tuesday. Valentine's right eye was partially closed, and an ugly purple mark above and below showed at a glance that he was the party who sought, in a public trial, salve for his lacerated feelings, and revenge for the altogether unlovely condition in which his face had been left. Mr. Buxton was granted an adjournment until one o'clock on Wednesday. The town hall was as usual crowded to the door. The case was not of sufficient importance to call for a verbatim report of the trial. Several witnesses were examined on either side. The facts appear to be as follows: A child of Mr. Buxton purchased some goods at Mr. Robinson's store on the morning of April 3rd. She told the clerk, Richards, that her mother would call in that evening and pay for them. Richards said: "What time in the evening? I suppose she will be down about ten o'clock," or words to that effect. The child repeated this at home and her father considered that such a message to his wife was insulting. About six o'clock on Monday evening Mr. Buxton sought Mr. Robinson's store and complained to Mr. Robinson that one of his clerks had insulted his (Buxton's) wife. Young Richards spoke up and acknowledged that he had spoken to the child, whereupon Mr. Buxton, to use his own expression "plugged him." The result of this passage at arms was the trial for assault and battery. After some of the evidence the lawyer for the defendant agreed to drop the case if a nominal fine were imposed.

A fine of $5 and costs was accordingly imposed.

The case, though trivial, excited considerable interest. There are expenses and faults on either side. It appears that Mrs. Buxton has made it a practice to keep clerks busy fruitlessly showing her goods until long past closing time and that it was this fact which caused Richards to make the remark that caused the trouble. The remark may have been merited, but he should have remembered that a child of eight years is not the safest medium in the world, and that children sometimes misconstrue, wrongly describe, misquote and exaggerate. Mr. Buxton, it seems, felt that it was incumbent upon him to vindicate his wife's honor, and, on general principles, he "plugged" the lad; but, had he allowed his natural anger to cool, there is no doubt that he would have straightened the matter without such unpleasantness as has followed from his hasty action.

Mr. W. J. Nelson appeared for the prosecutor; Mr. J. G. Gordon handled the defence.

CAMEL CHIRPING.

Mr. J. B. Glover has purchased a fine team from Mr. G. M. Annable, which is a credit to the district. No doubt Mr. Glover knows a fine animal when he sees one.

There is a large quantity of grain being stored up at R. Moore's, to be ready for the crusher next week.

Camel is not able to boast of a bride this spring as all the Camel bachelors that spent the winter in the east, have returned alone. They seem quite content with their single blessedness.

Mr. John Sherwood has returned after visiting many parts of Ontario. John says Camel is the place for him. He has purchased a fine team from Mr. Annable since he returned.

The trail to the shop has been well beaten of late. This is owing perhaps to some of the farmers getting their implements repaired for seeding. There is no doubt but business will be brisk at the Camel shop this season.

Mr. Bayne of Fergus, Ont., is at present in our midst and speaks in glowing terms of the Camel district.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1893.

To the Girl of Long Ago.

I think she was fairer than the girl of to-day;
She was dearer by far, I know And never I questioned the queenly way Of the girl of long ago.

Then where is the darling of long ago, When the blood ran warmer than wine, Is she under the lilies, or under the snow The darling girl of long ago?

Has she laid down to rest with the sod on Her breast
The cherished of long ago?
Has she wandered afar where the strange ways are?
Is her soft hair white like snow?

O, whether afar where the strange ways Are,
Or whether above or below Keep her from harm, for heart was her So warm.
And, oh, I loved her so.

—JOACHIN MILLER.

Here and There.

While on the wing I meet people so variously circumstanced and so various in their views that they seem to belong to different spheres or to have inhabited different worlds.

To some this country is the land of hope and also of realized wealth, for wealth in the sense of possessions beyond immediate needs with no unsatisfied claims looming up to scare away comfort and merriment. They call the land on which they live—their home.
They have built "for keeps," and dar-able permanence marks their doings and surroundings. Said one such man man to me yesterday, "Oh it's been a hard winter; but lots of snow affords promise of a good crop, and a hard winter leaves less probability of summer frosts. I paid $1500 for my quarter section, and I've been offered $700 advance on it; but I've bought a quarter alongside. We're here to stay."

This man is quiet in his movements but he moves; so does his wife and three sons and two daughters. The fact that he is head of a healthy intelligent and progressive family, instead of the lonely occupant of a bachelor's camp marks him as a man who comprehends his epoch.

Not far away there dwells a man whose face wears ever an unsettled look. He says the country is too cold for white men. If last year's crop had thrashed out 25 bushels to the acre instead of 16, and had sold for 65c instead of 45c, the temperature might have staid ten degrees lower and he would never have shivered; but the thin pocket lets in the cold and fears of the blizzard spoils his appetite. Unless things mend the poor man will leave his land, in which case he must begin again at the bottom or stay down. He is a hard working man, too, but he did not value the land at the right time. Other men's farms are rising in value; his is loaded down with debt and the mortgages which bear interest at 10 per cent and he is devoted to the struggle and struggling for life.

The contrast between these two cases illustrates the value of land as described largely on the use that is made of it. Intelligently directed labor applied to a prairie farm year after year will one year with another extract a good living for a family and enabling to spare; and will at the same time increase the value of the land to an extent representing a good interest on the purchase price of the farm. On the other hand, eagerness to get on, rash purchases, high interest, low crops, work neglected, grain wasted, stock perishing—these all impoverish the farm, and break down the health and spirits of the farmer. The land was excellent in both cases, but the man has been putting all he could into the farm, and the other has been in rash haste to get all he could out of it, because he did not value it.

Had the unfortunate man taken thought when first he secured his land and, regard that little piece of earth as his very own for all his life and his children's lives, if they liked and because of this very permanence in it, (seeing that it could not be taken from him nor carried away, nor carried away nor burned up,) had he refused to prefume that home by putting a mortgage on it, whatever other faults of judgment he might commit, he would not now be cast adrift.

If your people out west, like the wide-awake western folk they are, will only consider that there are no more continents vacant, there is a scramble for poor scorched Africa; the interior of Australia is to be flooded if possible to make a large area fertile; even Siberia is being examined with a view to its being made the abodes of free communities—they will see that land is going up in value.

A change, too, is imminent in the social aspect of things. Professional and mercantile men are having their innings. It will be the farmer's turn next, and when he fully realizes, as he is rapidly doing, the high vantage ground he holds, the farmer who possesses unnumbered land of reasonable area, position and fertility will dictate terms to the rest of the community.

She was a bright mathematical scholar and pretty, and when she rattled at the stamp window and laid down a dollar bill the handsome young clerk in a blue necktie on the inside was all attention.

"There's a dollar," she said, "give me four times as many twos as ones and the rest in threes."

"I beg your pardon," he stammered.
She repeated her request.

"Certainly," he said, and began to lay out the stamps.

He worked at it ten minutes without success, she watching him the meanwhile.

He wasn't busy with any one else and she didn't seem to mind watching him calculate, so she gave him another five minutes.

Then a customer came in.
"Just keep the dollar," she said sweetly, "and I'll come around in the morning and get the stamps in the proper proportions."

He thought she was becoming sarcastic and turned to wait on the next customer, but when he looked again for the girl of the mathematical turn she was gone.

That evening he visited the newspaper offices for counsel and advice, and the next day when she called he swore there wasn't a three-cent stamp in the office.

Now why did the clerk lie?

DR. PRICE'S BAKING POWDER.

Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The purchasing agents of the United States Government have ordered nearly one hundred thousand pounds of Dr. Price's Baking powder in the first five months of this year, 1892.

The government exercise great care in selecting its supplies of all kinds rejecting everything that is not of the best, and the very fact that it has adopted Dr. Price's Baking Powder is proof that it has found it the best of all baking powders. Dr. Price's is peculiarly adapted for export, as neither long sea voyages nor climate changes affect it, this brand keeping fresh and sweet for years while other baking powders deteriorate rapidly.

It is guaranteed to the government to be a pure cream of tartar powder free from ammonia, alum, or other harmful substances, and it is also the only baking powder prepared by a physician of high standing.

A year ago the strike on the western division of the C. P. R. had just come to an end. It will be remembered that the arbitration committee, consisting of the representatives from the engineers decided in reference to one of the points in dispute that the freight conductors should accept the increase offered by the company from $2.87 to $2.95 per day for one year, and that on April 1, 1893 the wages of such employees should be advanced $3 per day on the basis of 100 mile runs. Commencing last Saturday the conductors will receive this increase. The whole of the terms of the settlement have now been consummated. The relations on the C.P.R. between employees and employers have been exceedingly harmonious since the strike.

What these figures refer to particularly, you will require to read down.

The Fire of last year cleaned us out of Wall paper—not so much as one roll was saved. It was then too late to buy direct from the factory, and rather than have wall paper second handed, and consequently at a high figure, we did not buy at all. This spring we have placed in stock 2500 rolls wall paper and border direct from the factory.—Not an old pattern in the store, all new designs.—The interesting part of this advertisement to you is that we can save you money. Beautiful gold patterns from 20c. to 45c. in plain and embossed. Bed room patterns 8c. up.

SEYMOUR GREEN, 39A Office—High Street, West.

Complaint is made that the council charge for the use of the Town Hall for court purposes. The town should provide a room for the purpose. It is not fair that the magistrate should have to pay the amount out of his own pocket.

Chas. Scott and family; the Messrs. Bell Bros., Winchester, Ont.; C. E. Scott and family, Lucan Ont.; R. Heard, Guelph; and Mr. Robinson wife and family from the county of Grey, Ont., are new arrivals in the district.

Mr. Peter Garvin, a taxidermist from Carleton Place, Ont., is in town and looking for a suitable building in which to open up in his line. He will probably have a good run of business as the Moose Jaw district abounds in the feathered and fur game that sportsmen delight to have stuffed and mounted.

NOTICE to farmers and others requiring hired help. I have opened an intelligence office for supplying hired help of all kinds, and have several applications for places. All parties desiring to hire help are requested to hand in their names with particulars.

SEYMOUR GREEN, 39A Office—High Street, West.

Some miscreant painted the words "Small Fox Hospital" on the south side of Mr. O. Field's block the other evening. The would-be artist should purchase a spelling-book before decorating any more buildings.

The interior of Mr. W. W. Bole's new drug store now presents an appearance that is highly creditable. The shelving throughout are of oak, two large full plate glass mirrors, add to the general effect. The counters are of solid oak and are beautiful pieces of workmanship. The large plate glass window is adorned with a handsome shade and the interior is tastefully dressed. Mr. Bole has devoted the north side of the store to books and notions and the south side to drugs. The dispensary is at the west end. The premises throughout are heated with hot air. Altogether the building is a credit to the town and to the enterprising owner.

Mr. J. C. Drewry, who has charge of the illustrated Saturday Globe, arrived in town yesterday morning, with a view to writing up the town and district. A meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the forenoon and a special meeting of the council was called for two o'clock in the afternoon. It was decided that the offer of Mr. Drewry should be accepted. The council and Board of Trade bear one-half of the expense and J. H. Ross, M.L.A., promises that the Assembly will pay the other half. A photographer will be sent for immediately, and views of the public buildings of the town and some of the best farms in the district will be taken. The council held a special meeting last night to make final arrangements.

On Monday morning an amusing incident occurred on River St. It was in this wise. A little boy, who shall be nameless, was engaged in wheeling a baby carriage up and down the sunny street. Soon, however, the task grew too irksome for Easter Monday, a school holiday, and the boy pressed another lad into the service and skipped. Boy number two raced the baby up and down the sidewalk and in one of his chain lightning curves, in which he was trying how near he could run to the edge of the sidewalk without going off, capsized the carriage and deposited the child in the ditch. As there was about three feet or water the result might have been serious but Mr. Jas. N. McDonald, who happened to be near, plunged valiantly in and brought the startled youngster to land.

One of the most interesting trains that we have seen passing this place was one that went west on the evening of Wednesday of this week. It was composed of twenty-six cars of settlers and their effects on their way from Schuyler, Nebraska, to settle in the neighborhood of Oils on the C. & E. Railway. On the train there were ninety persons who some twenty four years ago left the County of York in the province of Ontario (the township of King chiefly) to settle in that part of Nebraska, they and their descendants. In returning to Canada they bring with them upwards of $50,000 in money and settlers' effects. One of the most prominent among them, a Mr. Joseph Edmiston, remarked that he felt more at home already in Canada than he ever felt in the United States, notwithstanding his twenty-four years residence there, and that in returning to Canada to reside on this side of the line, he felt like a transient returning to his first and only love. We rejoice in the filling up of this Western country. The Moose Jaw district is doing well, getting a fair share of the incomers; and we can well afford to rejoice, as we do, that the Northwest generally is receiving so many and large accessions to its population; and none make more acceptable settlers than the class represented by those on the said train.
